I'm Alex, a Freelance Illustrator working in Manchester. I am a queer illustrator, who really started to draw and design because I didn't understand any feelings within myself, I am the spokesperson for authenticity and communication - but how do you communicate if you don't know yourself? I started my journey and along the way I realized you don't have to know everything, I try to keep what I know real, and try to speak out for what I think is right, but I am always up for learning and developin...
