I graduated from Leicester University with a 1st Class Degree in Illustration and relocated to London where I started work as a trainee animator at Walt Disney Animation purely on the strength of my drawing ability. After leaving Disney I worked as an animator/director/character designer for all the major London based commercial animation studios producing commercials for the UK and US market. During this time in animation I also developed my illustration using Adobe Illustrator to create images that have their roots in strong traditional drawing and dynamic layouts but feel and look very contemporary. My client base ranges from publishing, packaging, toy/games and advertising
